DREW WRITING PROJECT SUMMER INSTITUTE APPLICATION

We are very proud to announce that we're one of the National Writing Project's newest sites! Drew Writing Project is now taking applications for our 2018 Summer Institute. Pre-K through 20 teachers of all subject areas are invited to apply.

Our institute is unique in that it has been designed to accommodate New Jersey's "short summers." With our hybrid of face-to-face and virtual study our participants can still enjoy much needed vacation and decompression time.

Applicants can learn more and apply here.

All applications are due by March 15th.

ARGUMENT SERIES WORKSHOPS

In the age of instant updates, fake news, and mile-long comment pages, it can be hard to navigate what makes a "good" argument. Join #DrewTEACH for a series of evening workshops in which participants will have the opportunity to be learners and makers.

Join us for individual workshops, or all three for a more complete digital argument education. Learn more and sign up here.

Partnerships

Do you want more out of your professional development? Consider forming a partnership with Drew University.

Programs focus on developing print and/or digital literacy skills and on improving the quality of teaching in K-12 classrooms.

-Workshops are presented by experienced, trained Teacher Consultants from the National Writing Project or Teacher Leaders from the Digital Literacies Collaborative.

-Programs are based on the National Writing Project model and are centered on research-supported, classroom-tested ideas.

-Programs are aligned to the Common Core State Standards and support GSOs and SGPs.

Teachers in partner schools receive:

-Meaningful and practical professional development

-Discounted fees to professional development programs in teacher education held at Drew University
